PRESS RELEASE

September 25, 2008

Fifer Design Studio is proud to announce that during the month of September, we have focused on expanding our knowledge and the level of quality in the services we can provide to our clients. We decided to send four team members to PSMJ Project Management Bootcamp.

“This was a great experience for me to continue to grow as a project manager. I enjoy working for a company that values personal growth.” –Stacy Updyke-Fennell

“We sincerely value our clients, and we pride ourselves on striving to continue to find new ways to improve our level of service!” - Marty Fifer, AIA

Casey Potash (Director of Interior Design), Danielle Hoyt (Project Manager), Stacy Updyke-Fennell (Project Manager), and Juan Gonzales (Job Captain) spent two days learning better methods in managing projects, and are excited to bring a higher level of quality to our clients!

PSMJ is a powerful resource for architectural and design firms. The outcome of this intensive seminar results in increased productivity, elevated response to client’s objectives, and helps foster innovation in design.
